

Saturday, 7th March 2009
Adelaide, South Australia

Air Beneath Our Wings

Initiative + Capital = Realised Ideals

One-day workshop with economic and monetary historian Christopher Houghton Budd for young people offering a lively and practical introduction to the world of money and its importance in modern life.

Rudolf Steiner drew attention to the importance of young people discovering their ideals in youth and realising them before their 28th year, because the ideals contain 'information' about their destiny and life on which one can set one's compass. This, rather than entering a world of mortgage debt and often-arbitrary career choices.

Easily said, of course, but not so easily achieved without the corresponding finance. But how? Exploring themes from his allegorical book, Rare Albion, the workshop will link the worlds of 'high' finance, credit crises, initiative, and purpose in life.

- |                    |  |
|--------------------|--|
| 09.30              | Realising One's IdealsThe Challenge of Our Times                               |
| 10.30              | Pause  |
| 11.00              | What's Nike got to do with it?The Meaning of 'Victory' in Modern Economic Life |
| 12.45              | Lunch  |
| 14.00              | The Bank of Youth and TradeHow initiative is financed in Rare Albion           |
| 15.30              | Pause  |
| 16.00- (17.30) | Walking the TalkCan you put a figure to your life task?                        |

---

Event information from: Gianna Mazzone (giannam@optusnet.com.au)
Lisa Devine (lisa.devine@bigpond.com)

Details of content from: Christopher Houghton Budd (chb@christopherhoughtonbudd.com)